PREFACE TO ADDENDA EDITION.

22 Nov 30 WILSON
THE call for a complete Short Score edition of THE NORTHERN PSALTER has afforded timeous opportunity of adding Seventy numbers to the original selection of 1872, and Supplement of 1875. The Work, therefore, now contains 402 Tunes, Chants, Anthems, Doxologies, &c., providing music for all the varied Psalm, Paraphrase, and Hymn metres used in public worship by the Established, Free, United Presbyterian, Evangelical Union and Congregational Churches of Scotland.

The wide and growing popularity of the Psalter, with its associate Supplement, Anthem Appendix, and Precentor's Companion (45,000 copies have been printed within five years), renders comment unnecessary as to the merits or usefulness of the collection; but the Editor desires to gratefully record his warmest thanks to those who have so materially assisted him in his labour of presenting a book reckoned worthy to be so largely used in the Service of Sacred Song. Amongst those granting ready and valued aid must be specially mentioned Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen; Miss Frances H. Havergal; Professor W. H. Monk, and the Compilers of Hymns Ancient and Modern; Dr. Arthur S. Sullivan, Editor of Church Hymns and Tunes, issued by the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge; Rev. R. R. Chope, proprietor of The Congregational Hymn and Tune Book; Mr. Alfred Stone, Editor of The Bristol Tune Book; Rev. Dr. Henry Allon for No. 250 from The Congregational Psalmist; Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., proprietors of Church Psalmody, by Dr. Charles Steggall; Messrs. James Nisbet and Co., publishers of Psalms and Hymns for Divine Worship; Dr. W. M. Cooke, and the Compilers of Congregational Church Music; Mr. G. F. Chambers, F.R.A.S., Editor of The Parish Tune Book; Mr. W. J. Hall for Nos. 194A and 247A, from The Mitre Tune Book; Mr. John Dobson for Nos. 329 and 334, from Tunes New and Old; Dr. John Hullah, Editor of The Book of Praise Hymnal; Rev. Thomas

Darling, proprietor of Hymns for the Church of England with Proper Tunes; the Publishers of The Irish Church Hymnal; Mr. Edwin Moss, and the Compilers of The London Tune Book; Dr. E. W. Monk, and the Rev. R. C. Singleton, Editors of The Anglican Tune Book; Rev. R. Brown-Borthwick, Editor of The Supplemental Hymn Tune Book; Messrs. Francis Orr and Sons, Glasgow; Rev. Dr. Hayne, Editor of The Merton Tune Book; Mr. Samuel Mart, proprietor of The Office of Praise; Rev. E. H. Bickersteth, Editor of The Hymnal Companion; Mr. T. Simpson, Editor of The Burnley Tune Book, for No. 336; Mr. S. D. Major, Editor of Tunes and Chants for Home and School; Dr. Waite, proprietor of The Hallelujah; the proprietors of Choral Harmony; The Year of Praise; The Church and Home Metrical Psalter; The Standard Tune Book, &c.

The Editor, while he further tenders his deep obligations to the many eminent musicians and practical psalmodists still amongst us whose names will be found affixed to tunes enriching the Psalter, would also express his grateful acknowledgments to the representatives of the late Rev. Dr. J. B. Dykes, Dr. H. J. Gauntlett, Rev. W. H. Havergal, Dr. Lowell Mason, and Dr. Sebastian S. Wesley,—men who have left their abiding mark upon the Church music of our day.

To prevent mistake, it may be well to note that a considerable number of the new tunes and harmonies which appear in the following pages are copyright property and printed under special arrangement and purchased permission. If copyright has in any case been, unwittingly, invaded, explanation or compensation will be readily tendered.

Watchful heed having been devoted to the movements and tendencies of our different religious denominations in the matter of their Hymnody, the Editor, while hopeful that no further enlargement or alteration in the present Work will be necessary for years, may yet take other means for keeping fresh and active his pleasant musical connection with the large body of Leaders and lovers of Congregational Praise who at home and in “lands afar off” have given kindly welcome to THE NORTHERN PSALTER.

ALPHABETICAL INDEX.

FIFTY-ONE of the new numbers in the Short Score Addenda Edition have been introduced throughout the Work by the letter "A,"—care being taken that the second tune should always be of a different metre from the primary one.

Press Opinions on the First Edition of the Work.

Edited with great care and skill.—Scotsman.

Undoubtedly the best Scotch collection that has yet appeared.—Dundee Argus.

Cannot fail, we think, to be one of the most popular collections of Sacred Music issued during the present generation.—Dumbarton Herald

Without any reservation, we place the The Northern Psalter first among Scottish collections.—Dundee Advertiser.

Will stand comparison with any collection published in the North since Edward Raban produced his Aberdeen Psalter, nearly two centuries and a half ago.—Glasgow Daily Mail.

The work is beautifully got up, and the Tonic Sol-Fa edition is in accordance with Mr. Curwen's latest improvements.—Banffshire Journal

Nothing which the Aberdeen people have ever done, skilled as they are in Psalmody, can be compared with this collection of tunes.—Fife-shire Journal.

A treasure of sacred song that will stand comparison with any that has yet appeared in this country. The harmonies are simple, elegant, sound, and easily sung. The book is compiled by one who has learned from long experience what congregations can and what they cannot do.—Presbyterian Psalmodist.

The Granite City has long held a high place in Congregational Psalmody, and Mr. Carnie's compilation has every desirable requisite for becoming the Standard Tune-Book for the North. The selection of tunes has been judiciously made from the first composers for the Church.—Edinburgh Daily Review.

A most valuable collection of music for the Scottish Presbyterian order of church service, edited by one who has long been engaged in leading the Psalmody in our churches, and who, by his experience and taste, has helped much in improving this delightful part of public worship. The Psalter stands pre-eminent as the work of a practical man, betokening maturity of taste and judgment.—United Presbyterian Magazine.

Opinions on the ANTHEM APPENDIX to the Psalter.

The work shows that the editor is a thoroughly practical reformer, for he has here provided material which any congregation that cares for its singing may use without difficulty.—Dundee Advertiser.

The selection of the anthems does great credit to the taste and judgment of the editor, while the harmonies are uniformly excellent. We have no doubt whatever that this little collection, like the work of which it is the Appendix, will achieve a wide popularity by virtue of its own intrinsic merits.—Scotsman.

Contains much that is exquisitely beautiful in melodic form and harmonic combination, and at the same time so simple as to be generally within the reading power of elementary pupils. It would be difficult to imagine any collection more comprehensive and of such uniform excellence for sixpence. We commend it to the notice of Precentors.—Presbyterian Psalmodist.

PRELUDE.

THE growing desire for the introduction of short Anthem pieces into the Song-Service of the Scottish Presbyterian Churches, and the aid which such compositions afford by sustaining interest and promoting progress in Class, Choir, and Congregational practisings, suggested the addition of this Appendix to the NORTHERN PSALTER.

With the view of meeting the requirements and customs of different places of worship, the Editor has aimed at giving variety in the style and character of the Music and Words of his selection. In some Churches for instance, an Opening Sentence is sung : in not a few cases the Anthem immediately precedes the Sermon ; while more frequently the Sentence or Anthem follows the last tune by way of Doxology or Dismission. Hence there will be found here Opening, Introductory, and Closing pieces, and in the fitting choice of these the Precentor or Conductor will of course be guided by good taste and judgment as to what is most suitable for the time and circumstances of the service. On all occasions, however, the Minister should be prepared to announce the name and number of the piece to be sung, so that the whole congregation may be enabled to join.

Thanks are due to Dr. W. M. Cooke, for permission to print Nos. 1 and 32 from Congregational Church Music; to the Rev. R. Brown Borthwick, for No. 7 ; to Mr. J. T. Cooper, for No. 10 ; to Mr. Charles Purday, for No. 12 ; to Mr. F. Pitman, for No. 17 from the Part Singer, and to Mr. J. S. Geikie, for No. 23. Power to publish certain of the other Copyrights has been obtained by purchase, while a number of the pieces have been specially arranged and adapted for this work.

Several favourite Sentences, &c., contained in former sheets issued by the Editor, and missing here, will be found incorporated throughout the body of The Northern Psalter.
